

DARING THIEF BINDS AND GAGS GIRL WHILE PREPARING TO ROB FLAT

FORCED ENTRANCE INTO GEORGE BRESSE'S APARTMENTS IN SCHMIDLEY'S FLATS THIS MORNING.

Miss Florence Bresse Makes Plucky Fight but Was Threatened With Death by Assailant Who Carried Ugly Looking Revolver.

One of the most daring and desperate attempts at robbery, combined with an assault upon a young girl, ever reported to the local police, occurred this morning between ten and eleven o'clock at the apartments of George W. Bresse in the Schmidley flats on North High street.

That the thief did not secure valuable for his daring attempt is probably due to the ravening of Miss Florence Bresse, who met the robber at the back door of the apartment as he was forcing his entrance, and attacked him with an embroidery stiletto she was working with, stabbing him on his right wrist as he broke through the screen door, and then, even though covered by an ugly looking revolver, resisted his advance into the house until overpowered and bound and gagged her.

With a gag forced into her mouth she could not scream for aid. Evidently by this time the thief became frightened, or weak from his wound, for he broke through the screen door, and then, even though covered by an ugly looking revolver, resisted his advance into the house until overpowered and bound and gagged her.

CONVICT LABOR CAMP TO BE ESTABLISHED

First Honor Camp Attempted in State Will be Tried Near Fond du Lac Shortly.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Waupun, Wis., July 10.—It was expected today that a gang of convicts from the state prison here would establish a labor camp at Fond du Lac, either this week or early next week. Ten men will be used in laying a side track to the women's reformatory building, which was erected largely by convict labor. The camp will be the first one of the sort in this state.

In another week about thirty more men will be added to the camp and work on the buildings will be begun. Several tents and a large building on the site will house the convicts. Carl Hubbard, superintendent of construction, who is virtually an unarmed guard, will be in charge.

Work was started this week on the three-mile road between Waupun and Chester, the Waupun station on the Northwestern road. Here a camp was stationed at the stone quarry, near the prison farm and about a mile from the city. Thirty men were employed in putting a fifteen foot concrete retaining on the road. The gang will later be augmented to forty men.

In this work the state furnishes a portion of the equipment, while Waupun and surrounding townships furnish tools and men and teams to assist in the work.

In the camps there will be no restraint apparent, the men being put on honor. In other states where camps have been maintained the men have been given indefinite sentences, reduced for good records in the camps. The lack of such laws in this state makes it necessary to provide some incentive for good records. This is done through the offering of daily wages. This is paid to the families of married men, who are given the preference in making up the camps.

The board of control expects to extend the plan to other camps. The work is successful this summer. Warden Woodward said today that no visitors would be permitted at the camps except those under guidance of a state official. He said he had no intention of making the men the objects of curiosity seekers.

HE WINS SEAT IN CONGRESS BY PLUCK

Parish, Scotland, July 10.—A militant suffragette entering an exultant yell, jumped on the foot board of an automobile in which King George and Queen Mary was driving through the streets of Perth today.

The woman who was identified as Rhoda Fleming from Glasgow, seized the handle of the door of the royal automobile before the paralyzed police could act. Two policemen then seized her and escorted her to the station. A large force of troops were requisitioned to protect her as she was conveyed to the police station.

HEAD OF WISCONSIN PLUMBERS IN COURT

Green Bay, July 10.—George F. Beck, who as president of the Wisconsin Master Plumbers' association, was indicted by the federal grand jury here today for violating the Sherman law made voluntary appearance before United States Commissioner Strohman in this city today.

He entered a plea of not guilty to the charge and furnished bonds to the sum of $2,000 to insure his appearance before the United States court at Des Moines, Iowa.

EVIDENCE LACKING TO CONVICT WINTERS

Case Against Newcastle, Indiana, Doctor Charged With Daughter's Murder, Dismissed Today.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Newcastle, Indiana, July 10.—The case against Dr. W. A. Winters, who was charged with conspiracy with the disappearance of the doctor's nine year old daughter Catherine Winters, was dismissed in the circuit court here today by the prosecuting attorney, on the ground that there was not sufficient evidence against the defendants. William Cooper, also charged with the conspiracy, was also set free.

The charges grew out of an investigation made here several weeks ago by Robert Abel, an Indianapolis private detective, who subsequently withdrew from the case. The three defendants expressed confidence before court opened today that Abel would not appear to press the case, and they were certain that they would be discharged.

The arrests created a sensation here several weeks ago. The whole country had been combed in the search for the little girl, who vanished fifteen months ago, when Abel burst into the home with his charge that Dr. Winters, his wife, and the roomer, Cooper, knew that little Catherine Winters had been killed and her body disposed of. Abel based his case on the discovery of a small red sweater, a girl's hair ribbon and a man's shirt in the basement of the Winters home. The fact that the noise of the scuffling of feet was heard from the rear of the upper and lower apartments on that side of the building.

Miss Bresse was reported as much better this afternoon although suffering intensely from the shock of her experience and her hand and wrist, which were bound with a towel taken from a drawer in the room, will suffer no inconvenience from the sensational attempt of her assailant.

REFUSES TO APPEAR BEFORE COMMITTEE

President Will Not Nominate Man for Reserve Board Until Senate Acts on Nomination of Warburg.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, July 10.—President Wilson will make no nomination for a federal reserve board until the senate takes definite action on his name. Mr. Wilson expects thus to place the responsibility on the senate for leaving the board in limbo.

That is the president's position in his fight with the senate over Mr. Warburg's nomination as expressed today by officials in his confidence. That there was no chance of him changing his mind was stated definitely when Mr. Warburg finally decided that he will not appear personally before the banking committee before the senate takes action on his nomination.

Mr. Wilson was making an effort to get Mr. Warburg to appear before the committee, officials at the White House said that any such attempt would be useless.

FIND MORE LETTERS THAT CLERK RIFLED

Madison Postoffice Clerk Evidently Attempted Wholesale Theft of Mail.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Madison, July 10.—Another bunch of 11 letters, most of them addressed to the secretary of state and containing checks for automobile plates, was discovered in a pile of waste paper in the postoffice basement here today. Walter Callahan, night clerk at the postoffice, is held for the theft. Some of the letters were addressed to university girls and contained money with which they were to pay their fare home with in June.

GARRISON ENFORCES NEW ARMY METHODS

Secretary of War Punishes Fred Boat, Charged With Sending Untrue Dispatches from India.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, July 10.—Secretary Garrison has enforced for the first time the new army regulations governing the conduct of correspondents by punishing Fred Boat, an American associated with the Cleveland Press, who was with Funston's brigade at Vera Cruz. He was charged with sending out sensational and untrue dispatches. Secretary Garrison has revoked his credential as correspondent, with the field army and ordered his deportation to the United States. As the dispatches in question also involved the navy, Secretary Garrison has stayed the execution of his order until Secretary Daniels has opportunity for investigation.

TWO MILWAUKEE TEACHERS TO MARRY GIRL PUPILS

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Milwaukee, July 10.—A double romance of the school room will find its culmination the latter part of the month when two instructors of the South Division high school will marry two young girls who were pupils in their classes, and whose minds they have helped to mould.

On July 22 the marriage of Miss Jennie Grabner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Grabner, to Bertram Edward Brown, instructor in history, will take place at the home of the bride's parents.

The following day Miss Norma Ravitz will be married to William Radtke, instructor in history and football coach.

The brides-to-be are intimate friends and likewise the bridegrooms.

NEW VICTORIES GIVE REBELS COURAGE TO ADVANCE SOUTHWARD

General Villa Prepares to Prosecute Campaign With Renewed Vigor Ending Possibilities of Internal Peace.

El Paso, Texas, July 10.—The speedy return of General Villa's army southward to resume the campaign against Mexico City was indicated here today following the receipt of advices from Torreon that the internal peace conference was ended and a report of the transactions would be given to the president soon.

With Guadalajara in the constitutionalists' hands and San Luis Potosi besieged by the revolutionists, there remains only two or three points of defense for the federalists between the national capital and the southern edge of the territory controlled by the revolutionists.

Once San Luis Potosi is captured, the three military divisions of the revolutionists will converge on Mexico City, according to an assertion made in El Paso today by both Carranza and Villa followers.

More Active Campaigning.

Douglas, Ariz., July 10.—General Obregon, commander of the constitutional forces, who on Wednesday captured the important city of Guadalajara and took prisoners more than 5,000 federalists, after a three days' battle, prepared today to reorganize his forces with a view to marching on Trujillo, the junction on the Mexican Central railroad, connecting Mexico City with northern and western Mexico.

General Obregon last night telegraphed F. S. Elias, border reporter, that he routed the federal army of 12,000 men defending Guadalajara under General Mico, federal governor of the state of Jalisco, in a fierce battle extending over a zone of sixty-five miles.

General Obregon said the federal losses were heavy, but his own casualties were small. The federalists who escaped are being pursued by the constitutionalists, and General Obregon was of the opinion that he would take in several thousand recruits for his army in the captured city, said his own forces numbered 10,000 men.

FREE DEVELOPMENT NEEDED FOR YOUTH

Speaker at N. E. A. Meeting Advises Against Too Much Interference in Child's Normal Growth.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

St. Paul, July 10.—"Unless certain adjustments soon are made in the educational system, the public schools of America will lose their hold in our civilization and continue to exist only as a decaying institution."

This was the declaration of J. H. Francis, superintendent of schools, Los Angeles, California, in an address before the annual convention of the National Superintendents' Association, which closed its week's session today.

"Every child has a right to freedom in the pursuit of its normal development, free from mental, religious, political and financial exploitation," Francis declared, "and the school should be a place where the child is free to develop its individuality and its own personality."

Francis said that the school should be a place where the child is free to develop its individuality and its own personality. He said that the school should be a place where the child is free to develop its individuality and its own personality.

BOAT CAPSIZES AND FOUR ARE DROWNED

Wealthy Ontario Farmer, His Two Children and a Maid Meet Death on River.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Branchford, Ont., July 10.—Thomas Garret, a wealthy farmer, his two children and a maid, lost their lives last night in the Grand river, while taking a boat ride. The other occupant of the boat was a farm hand, who swam to the river bank and gave the alarm, but the boat and its occupants had disappeared before aid arrived. The two children who were drowned were ten and eight years old. The farm hand was unable to give a description of the accident, except to say that the boat overturned and they fell in the water.

CHINA IS WARNED BY GREAT BRITAIN

Must Agree to Boundary Settlement at Tibet or Trouble Will Follow, Says Gray.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

London, July 10.—A warning that trouble was liable to result from China's refusal to sign the convention in regard to the border of the British protectorate in Tibet, reached by convention at Vojiejeing, India was issued to China today by Sir Edward Gray, the British foreign secretary. Sir Edward was speaking on the subject of the foreign office in the house of commons, and said:

"If China does not sign but resorts to an aggressive policy, the consequences will be disastrous to China. There is certainly will be grave trouble on the Indian frontier, which will require Great Britain to take up the matter seriously with the government of China."

CONVICT PARDONED TO REWARD HEROISM

Missouri Governor Sets at Liberty Prisoner Who Rescued Child from Flames.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Jefferson City, Mo., July 10.—William Schulte, serving a ten year term in the state penitentiary for murder, was pardoned by Governor Major today as a reward for his heroism in saving the life of a baby last spring. Schulte was working on the prison farm, when he saw the house of a farmer burning. He ran to the house and fighting his way through the flames, rescued a baby and brought out the mother. The mother was so badly burned that she died. Schulte was also badly burned.

THREATEN TO LYNCH BELOIT MAN TAKEN ON GIRL'S CHARGES

South Beloit Authorities Spirit David W. Christman to Rockford to Prevent Violence.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Beloit, July 10.—Threats of lynching are being made here today against David W. Christman, aged fifty, who was arrested last night by a South Beloit policeman, charged with a crime against eleven year old Violet Larsen. Christman took a party of young girls berry picking near Rockton, Ill., three miles south of here, yesterday. When the little Larsen girl returned last night she told her father of Christman's actions. Her father sobbed as he told this story to Judge Clarke at the municipal court last night.

The alleged offense was committed over the state line in Illinois. Christman was arrested at his home in this city at eleven o'clock last night, just as the girl was being circulated among the neighbors. The South Beloit police spirited the man away to Rockford. In justice court this morning, Christman pleaded not guilty and was placed under $1,000 bonds.

GETS SEA-SICK IN BIG WHEAT FIELDS

Tramp Declares Waves in Kansas Wheat Fields Made Him Seasick.

A steady, but youthful looking young man asked a certain gentleman where he could obtain an easy job, with a heavy accent on the easy part of the occupation. The tramp explained that he had been in Kansas working in the wheat fields, but had a run of hard luck and finally landed in Janesville.

Knowing there was still a large demand for laborers in the wheat fields, the gentleman asked the stranger why he did not stay in Kansas, where the stranger admitted he had been working for three days.

In answering the question said: "Well, pard, I'll tell you. You see I am a landlubber, never sailed before the mast or have taken a peep at the briny deep and have steered clear of water as much as possible, for water never agreed with me."

"Well, out in Kansas the wheat is so high that when the wind blows, making waves over those acres of 'bread' it looks so much like ocean waves that I got seasick. Besides, Kansas is dry."

That the story was worth a dime was the opinion of the gentleman, and after giving him a dime, he told the tramp to the county jail, where farmers have a waiting list for commitment law prisoners. Instead of going in this direction, the vag decided to head around to the nearest "free lunch counter."

SAILOR VICTIM OF BOLD SUBSTITUTION

Alfred Johansen.

Alfred Johansen.

Alfred Johansen is the victim of one of the boldest attempts at substitution on record. Peter Grimes, an American crook, was captured by U. S. authorities in Nagasaki, Japan. While he was being taken to the boat that was to return him to America, he in some way got Johansen under the influence of liquor and substituted Johansen for himself, effecting his escape. Johansen was brought to the United States, but was released shortly after his arrival, he being able to prove his innocence.

DEAD! FROM PARING CORNS

More Lives Periled Daily

"I read this so often in the newspapers," says a famous chemist, "that I decided there must be a way to stop it. Finally I discovered this safe, quick, painless home method and called it Blue-Jay."

Peculiar, If True

A sure "scare" for crows was discovered and found to be a success by a Rock county farmer, and within the last few days has been put to use in keeping the black pests from the prize gardens and seed fields. The his prize scarecrow, a crow filled with straw, fixed up with a tramp's clothes, with a hat perched on top, and a fake gun, has passed into oblivion so far as effectiveness is concerned. The wise old "cawers" have long discovered they were bunched and nowadays become so familiar with Mr. Scarecrow that they come and perch on his waving arms to pick out the best spots of the fields.

Furthermore the scarecrow affords them an excellent retreat whereby a sentinel can watch for any stray sunner. After leaving a large amount of prize corn this Rock county farmer, who is a leader in his line of industry, surmised a plan of keeping the black pests away from his garden truck when viewing the scarecrow parade on the 10th of July.

After seeing the exhibit of the Lakota club in the suffragette brigade, Mr. Farmer went home, consulted his good wife, and together they rigged up the new invention.

A life sized dummy, rather large in size, was made. Next Mr. and Mrs. Farmer outfit the form in the latest and craziest woman's apparel.

The latest Paris creation had nothing on Miss Scarecrow when it came to having correct lines and flounces. It would tax Margaret Mason to describe this gown, the language of the fashion designer, it was a novelty epergne, with circular flounces that looked like a triple decked lamp shade. Added to this was bolero armholes, a canvass collar that was in style in the time of Queen Elizabeth put Mary Queen of Scots in Westminster Abbey, but may be seen often on Janesville streets of late. Over a battise foundation Miss Scarecrow had a conglomeration of girdles, tunics and whatnot? Any way the whole affair was a good example of the elite fashions.

The freak Mr. Farmer placed in the middle of his garden in place of the time honored scarecrow. The next morning the crows of the neighborhood arrived in the nearby grove of trees for breakfast. After morning's greetings they started to fly down to the garden, when the sentinel, who heretofore came in on the second course of the feed, perceived a new visitor in the garden. One good look at that creation was enough for him and his fellow crows. One mighty "caw" and the whole flock "beat it" for tall timbers. No amount of inducements of the leader of the flock could make any crows of that neighborhood even go to the grove to take the second look at Miss Scarecrow. Mr. Farmer is of the opinion that a live model, as often seen, would serve just as effectively for wise old Mr. Crow. Even the robins, blue birds, bold sparrows and bluejays sidetrack the garden where Miss Scarecrow holds supreme.

HE'S MAKING GOOD WITH CHICAGO FEDS

Tom McGuire.

Tom McGuire, son of a Chicago policeman, is making good as a pitcher for the Chicago Federals, leaders in the league. He has a pitcher's record well above .500.

FREDDIE WELSH, LIGHTWEIGHT CHAMP, PROVES SAYING, "PERSISTENCE WINS"

Freddie Welsh.

Freddie Welsh, new lightweight champion of the world, is an example of the factor persistence is in winning success in the boxing game. He is a champion for the first time at twenty-eight, and has fought ninety odd battles. He started his career in 1905, when he came to America and was employed to do odd jobs about a physical culture school conducted by Joe Knipe. It was here he learned the elements of boxing.

PITCHES ORDINARY BALL; WINS GAMES

Bob Shawkey.

Bob Shawkey of the Philadelphia Athletics is winning most of his games this year, but a study of his strikeout, pass and hits allowed record indicates that he is pitching only ordinary ball. The same may be said with regard to Pennock and Plank, the other two twirlers upon whom Connie Mack most depends.

Chicken Hawk in Flight. Saw chicken hawk in flight, which suggests the motion of a motorcar. No flapping, no soaring, but a series of quick, explosive beats of the wings, each sending the bird forward in a leap of several yards. The flicker gives five strokes, then a jump—From "A Farmer's Notebook."

FIGHT GAME BELIEVED DOOMED IN CALIFORNIA

SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE. San Francisco, July 10.—There is every indication today that the prize-fighting game is going into the California state election in the fall, already licked. The proposition which, if it passes, will put the sport down for the count, is not up to the legislature but to the voters themselves. It is on the ballot as an initiative measure and if a consensus of opinion signifies anything, the majority in its favor is a certainty. The fight promoters themselves show no enthusiasm in opposing it. Either they have already grown rich enough and are ready to retire, or they consider their cause hopeless, but not a word are they saying against the abolition of the fighting craft throughout the state. In fact, they say openly that they think 1914 will see the last ring battle in California, until another election at any rate.

DIRECTOR SUBMITS SWIMMING PROGRAM

Classes in Swimming Will Open Monday Morning at Goose Island for Residents of the City.

Walter Cox, director of the playgrounds, has completed the program of swimming classes which will begin Monday morning. Plans were made for the children of the four playgrounds and also for all the people in the city who wish to learn to swim. Older people may come to the classes at any time but the children who attend the playgrounds must attend only at their stated time.

The directors of the plots will meet the children at nine o'clock every day and take them to Goose Island where the lessons will be given. A diving platform and springboard are being erected in the rope area so that the children can have the most possible fun with little danger. The five instructors will be present each day during the swimming.

It is expected that a large number of the older people will become interested in the work. Already a large number of people have signified their intention of attending the classes.

Following is the schedule of classes: Monday—Boys: Webster and Washington schools. Tuesday—Girls: Webster and Washington schools. Wednesday—Boys: Jefferson and Adams schools. Thursday—Girls: Jefferson and Adams schools. Friday—All girls. Saturday—All boys.

HIS KNUCKLE BALL FOOLS EVERYBODY

Eddie Cicotte.

Eddie Cicotte, Sox pitcher, has become famous because of his knuckle ball. "Eddie" doesn't pitch—he shoves it from him much after the manner of a shot-putter. This means he can use only "half speed." There isn't much behind the ball, but it fools everybody.

RECRUIT PITCHES HIGH CLASS BALL

"Red" Faber.

"Red" Faber, a White Sox recruit pitcher, formerly of the Des Moines team of the Western league, is making Windy City fans sit up and take notice. In a recent game in Chicago he allowed the Philadelphia champions nothing but a scratch hit and shut them out 2-0.

JANESVILLE STARS PLAY EDGERTON NEXT SUNDAY

The Janesville Stars will journey to Edgerton on next Sunday to meet the Edgerton aggregation on the latter's grounds. A hard battle is looked forward to. This is the fifteenth game the Stars have played this season and they have made an exceptionally good record for themselves. The lineup which will play at Edgerton tomorrow is as follows: Fielders, Roherty, Brummond, Fullerton; basemen, Miller, Hill, McGinley; shortstop, Jackson; battery, Spohn and Hovland. E. Donnelly of this city will umpire the game.

ROCKFORD CANOE CLUB ON WAY TO WAUSAU STOP HERE

The Seminole Canoe Club of Rockford passed through here this morning on their way to Wausau. Their canoes have been shipped to that place, and the return to Rockford will be made by water. They expect to pass through this city in about six days.

Exterminate the Cockroach.

The cockroach acts as an insect porter of typhoid fever, bubonic plague and possibly cancer. Several years ago an epidemic of typhoid fever on a United States warship was proved to be propagated by cockroaches. In a recent issue of the London Lancet, Dr. W. Melville Davison calls attention to the fact that the cause of cancer may be an alga or vegetable micro-organism which is found in the intestines of several species of roaches.

THE APOLLO.
"The Mayor and the Model" is the name of a laughable comedy skit which will be presented at the Apollo for the balance of the week. James Fulton and company of four people produce in this sketch some bright, breezy comedy. Maleta Bonconi, the violin virtuoso, associated with the Chicago Conservatory of Music as leading soloist and instructor, will delight the lovers of music with her violin solos. This lady has a wide reputation. Her Greenway shows his cleverness in cartooning and juggling.

Heredity.
Who knows what seeds each man living on earth leaves behind him, which are only destined to come up after his death? Who can say by what mysterious bond a man's fate is bound up with his children's, his descendants', how his earnings are reflected in them, and how they are punished for his errors?—Ivan Turgenev.

One on Father.
A young minister preached one Sunday to a rural congregation and spent the next day visiting the people. At one house the man of the house was expressing his appreciation of the sermon in very complimentary terms while assisting the minister to put up his team. His little son had followed him and after eyeing the minister a minute or two exclaimed: "Why, papa, you said he was a one hoss preacher, but he's got two hosses!"—National Monthly.

Zeno in Accidents.
Thomas Hardy might have added another story to his "Life's Little Ironies," if he had read about the man who died from blood poisoning, after pricking his finger on a safety first pin.—Milwaukee Journal.

Her Idea of Lawyers.
"I am not guilty. If I had been, I should have engaged a lawyer!" was the observation of a woman summoned before the Darlington (England) bench.

Evansville News

MRS. JONATHAN WEAVER

DIED LAST TUESDAY;

FUNERAL WAS TODAY

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Evansville, July 10.—Mrs. Jonathan Weaver passed away at her home on North Main street at one o'clock Tuesday morning. Her illness had lasted more than a year, yet through it all she was ever cheery and hopeful and her death came as a shock to her relatives and friends. Her maiden name was Hannah Nevhart. She was born October 7, 1837, at Lake View, Wisconsin.

In the spring of 1870 she moved with her mother and brothers to Floyd county, where she made her home until her marriage to Jonathan Weaver of Evansville, on the 27th day of December, 1875. They made their home about six miles west of town, until in 1898 when they moved to Evansville, where the remainder of her life had been spent.

Mrs. Weaver was a member of the local order of Royal Neighbors of America. She was also a member of the Free Baptist church of Evansville.

Six children came to bless her home, four of whom survive her: Mrs. Cora A. Gleason, Alameda, Max and Percy, Frank, died in Appleton, Wis., in 1899, and Mrs. Nora Vandarwarka died in Evansville in March 1914. Besides the children she leaves to mourn her loss, a husband and two sons, Rev. N. C. Oliver, officiating.

The regular meeting of the city council was called to order this week by Mayor Pearsall, with Aldermen Babcock, Chapin, Shreve, Williams and Winston present.

The minutes of the meeting of June 2, 4th and 9th were read and approved. The street and alley committee, acting as the board of public works, submitted a report showing their final determination of assessment against the property affected by the proposed paving of Main street. It was moved and carried that the assessment against the property of Mrs. Jane Shergar, lying directly west of Allen's Creek, be reduced $140.00.

A resolution directing the finance committee to prepare an ordinance providing for the payment of both principal and interest of $2,000 of paying bonds was adopted.

A recommendation from the Cemetery commission relative to the price of lots, also the grading of drives in the new addition to the cemetery, was adopted.

The usual bills were ordered paid and the meeting adjourned to Tuesday evening, July 14, at 7:30.

Library Notes.

This week's list of new books at the public library are as follows: Neeser, "The Landman's Log." Records of the observations and impressions formed by a civilian during a winter's cruise with the Atlantic fleet. Fajnce: "What Does Christianity Mean?"

"Banking and Currency in the United States." Phylax: "Eighteen thousand words often mispronounced." Gayley: "Representative English comedies." Gifford: "Needlework."

Herbert: "First principles of evolution." Spear: "Men who were found." Fathall: "Garretts." One hundred choice selections. 2 vols.

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Jorgenson and F. W. Gillman returned last night from Milwaukee where they made a business trip. C. F. Jorgenson brought home a new car.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Baker, Miss Grace Crosby and Roy Hyne drove to Janesville last night where they met Walter Curtright of Milwaukee who returned for a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Bert Baker.

L. S. Leighton of Chicago was a business visitor here yesterday.

Enjoyed Social.

There is a pocket made for the soap in the rubbing surface, the cake being supported by a "follower" which keeps the soap pressed

A Little Talk on Quality

There are a great many places where you can buy goods at extremely low prices, but experience, except in rare exceptions, teaches us that the goods are worth no more than the low prices paid for them.

Sometimes we wonder when reading in others' advertisements glowing descriptions of articles that they are selling, but when these goods are compared with our line of the same articles ninety-nine cases in a hundred we don't wonder long. Ours has the quality—theirs has not.

Price is only one of the things to be considered, for if you fail to get the quality you simply throw away good money, no matter how small the amount may be. Therefore, our policy is, and always has been, to sell the Right Quality at the Right Price, and you will find invariably that a lower price than ours means also a correspondingly lower quality. It is the combination of prices and quality in which this store is strong.

IF YOU WILL

compare my bargains with any other concern in the city, you will find beyond a question of a doubt, that mine are much greater, and mine are fully guaranteed—the linings to wear as long as the garment or relined free. A perfect fit or no take and a $33.00 tailored suit for $20.00

Difference in Lives.

It costs to send. To give a message to the world, to express one's personality in one's time calls for a real expenditure. That is why small and selfish lives are only receivers, while those lives which bless mankind have given of their substance and of their selves.

In Luck.

Small Brother (whose sisters are working for their girl guides' ambulance badge): "Come on, here's a bit of luck for you. I've made Baper's nose bleed." Patch.

no prestige of nationality whatever to help him. He is nothing but a plain, simple, native-born American; but Eberhardt's nationality and his official machine availed nothing against the convincing charge of ruinous taxation. And so it will be in Wisconsin.

What has happened in Minnesota can happen in Wisconsin. It points out a moral the effect of which should not be neglected. Minnesota, like Wisconsin, has suffered from ultra reformers but not as badly, and the fact they have turned and wiped out the men responsible for their sufferings at a much earlier stage than Wisconsin shows that it is in the wind and that the days of the ultra reformer are numbered.

The Wisconsin Woman's Suffrage association has just issued a booklet as a word of warning to legislators and to the voters at large, as to just what the men who comprised the last legislature stood for as typified by their vote on certain questions that affected the home life of the state. While denied the right of franchise, this women's organization has really entered the political field and their booklet will doubtless take its place in the campaign literature of the present year.

With President Wilson at the helm and Henry Ford as first mate, the ship of state will prove herself a staunch old craft if she weathers the breakers. Ford is in a class by himself. The fact that he is making money so fast that he doesn't know what to do with it, places him outside the range of average manufacturers, and he is no more qualified to judge of general business conditions than a school boy. Yet our psychological president takes him seriously and proposes to go ahead with his business destructive program.

On The Spur of The Moment

The Hero.

He stuttered like a motorboat. When he tried conversation, He always seemed to be the goat of all the congregations. He was as dull as Balaam's ass. He had no sort of knowledge. He'd never seen a freshman class in high school or in college.

His topknot was a fiery red. Almost a conflagration. In fact it nearly scorched his head; He was a weird creation. His face would stop an eight-day clock.

To look at him gave one a shock. He had no handsome feature.

But still he was a hero and The girls all gathered round him. They thought that he was simply grand.

And were pleased that they'd found him. They gazed at him and sighed and sighed.

Moyer Sells Cigar Store

Business Purchased by E. A. Hall of Brodhead. E. A. Hall of Brodhead, today takes charge of Moyer's Cigar store which O. E. Moyer has conducted for the past seven years and in which he has made hundreds of friends. Mr. Hall is well and popularly known in this section and his acquaintances will be glad to see him in business here. He will immediately proceed to remodel and redecorate the store, adding two barber chairs, and making it in every respect a first class, up-to-date store. All bills for papers and magazines since the first of the month will be payable to Mr. Hall.

In speaking of the sale, Mr. Moyer stated: "I wish to thank the public for their generous patronage in the past and I trust they will continue to trade at the store with Mr. Hall."

Romans in Britain.
The Romans made war upon the Britons when under Julius Caesar they invaded it in B. C. 55. In fact they were very generally at war in trying to subdue the country until they left it about 300 A. D. as witness the incidents connected with the names, Caradoc and Roadice.

EXPECTS TO FINISH OILING ON SATURDAY

Councilman Goodman Has City's Streets in Fine Shape After Strenuous Season.
With favorable weather the oiling of streets in Janesville will be completed by tomorrow night was the announcement of Councilman P. J. Goodman, superintendent of streets, this morning. For the past week oiling treatment has been rushed on thoroughfares on the east side of the river and except the possibility of re-oiling several of the main streets this fall and repair work, the oiling is completed.

Over seventy thousand gallons of oil have been spread this season and the majority of the streets treated. Excellent oil, together with careful work on the part of the street employees and Superintendent Goodman, have combined to achieve good results this year. The trouble experienced last year in preventing traffic from tearing up the oiled surface was overcome this year by sanding streets city and houses was secured. Better results were secured with the use of the heavy oil as a street treated with this coat practically became an asphalt highway.

Circuit Court remains to be oiled and several other small portions of paved highways which will be worked on Saturday. Some complaint was raised by residents in the third ward about the paying of the thick oil, but little trouble was experienced after the streets were sanded.

Next week it is the plan of Councilman Goodman to employ a section of the street workmen in repairing the crosswalks throughout the city.

REPORTS NO CHANGE IN ROAD CONDITIONS

Contractors Building County Highways Are Making Good Use of Favorable Weather.

There is no change in the condition of county highways now under construction from the statement last week, according to Highway Commissioner C. E. Moore today. The contractors who are now engaged in construction work are making good use of the excellent weather to push ahead the work as fast as possible. Milton weas is now torn up but is not impassable, while the Milton Junction branch on the same road is still incomplete. McCracken Brothers have begun work on the Janesville-Beloit road just below Yost's Park, and this highway will be avoided several weeks by motorists. Conditions of highways in other parts of the county have not been altered materially from the statement of a week ago.

MME. CAILLAUX HAS NO FEAR OF RESULT

Slayer of Paris Editor Confident of Acquittal As Case Starts Today.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Paris, July 10.—Mme. Caillaux remained confident of acquittal as her murder trial began today.

With the preparations for her defense completed, Mme. Henriette Calmette, former editor of the Paris Figaro, is confident of victory.
Her husband, Joseph Caillaux, former minister of finance, is so confident that she will be freed that he is quoted as having recently declared: "Mme. Caillaux will be acquitted in July and in November I shall re-enter the ministry."

The cold-blooded assassination of Calmette by Mme. Caillaux last March created a tremendous sensation in France and throughout Europe. The deliberate character of the deed and the prominence of the principals made the incident more sensational than anything that had occurred in Europe in recent years.

While public feeling in France was at first against the slayer, her position soon came to the front, and even went so far as to say that her act was justified. In the preliminary examination she expressed regret that she had killed the editor, and declared she merely intended warning him.
"I was afraid he would carry his attacks so far," she said, "that my husband would take it upon himself to kill him. I did not want such a thing to happen."

Newspaper Attacks Bitter.
The published attacks in Le Figaro had been carried on for some months and each article became more potent. The trouble started when Calmette began a systematic campaign against the finance minister in an effort to prevent the passage of an income tax law. Caillaux was the real force in the cabinet, and as he had pledged himself to the levying of an income tax Calmette and the interests he represented did their best to discredit him and bring about the fall of the cabinet. He was accused in Le Figaro of various acts of gross political corruption, but when these attacks failed, Calmette made his charges more personal.

Last January Calmette published a four-column article under the heading "The Secret Combination of M. Caillaux and his Personal Political Treasury." In this article the Figaro editor attempted to show that the finance minister had tried to extort money from the bank of France.

Frenchman whose Brazilian concessions were sold by the French government and the proceeds retained by the treasury.
In subsequent articles Caillaux was called a traitor, and the charge made that he used every means to secure personal aggrandizement.
Cleaner Politics Wanted.
Since the murder a formidable religious movement has been launched for a higher moral standard in politics. The religious press calls attention to the fact that Mme. Caillaux is a divorcee, that the man she murdered had been divorced, that Calmette had been divorced twice and the defending lawyer, M. Labori, is the husband of a divorcee, the former wife of the famous musician De Pachman, whose divorce was obtained by Labori's legal efforts.
The Calmette trial will again draw the attention of the whole world to the shocking condition of morality in the private lives of French statesmen and the terrible dangers to the very life of the republic arising from these conditions. Caillaux, it will be recalled, discussed intimate state secrets in correspondence with a woman not then his wife. As this has also occurred with other statesmen equally prominent, the question is asked: "If these men divorce and remarry every few years, scattering confidential information broadcast in their feminine circle as they go from one woman to another, how many years will the republic continue to exist?"

One of the reformers has said: "Things are as bad today in Paris when liberty, equality and fraternity are supposed to be enthroned instead of the divine right of kings, as they ever were when Mme. du Pompadour and the du Barry were the actual arbiters of the nation's welfare."

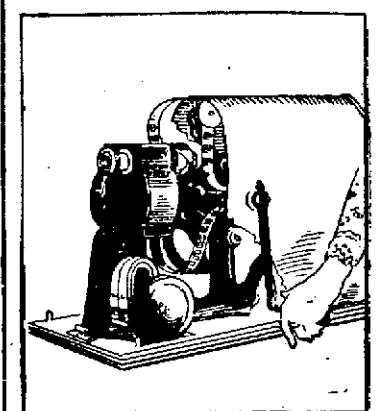

The Calmette republic, whose political corruption is a time-worn subject of discussion in Europe, is now brought forward in France as a model in that it makes a man's private morality a part of his public record, to be subjected to the strictest scrutiny by the people.

MOVING PICTURES AT HOME

Valuable Safety Features Which Have Been Recently Introduced.

By some recent improvements made in the construction of the moving picture machine it has been popularized to the extent that it may be brought right into the home, to be used and enjoyed by any one without the least knowledge of electricity or mechanics. No wiring is necessary and the film being non-explosive and fire proof, there can be no danger. Heretofore only those with an expert familiarity with the apparatus have been in a position to undertake their operation. The principal feature of the new apparatus, which is shown in the accompanying cut, is the absence of electrical wiring. It is not necessary to have the current in the house where it is to be used. The part of the apparatus consists of a dynamo of tiny proportions, but of great efficiency driven by the hand crank, which also moves the film in front of the projecting lens. This light with a correctly built reflector is entirely sufficient for the purpose and a picture four feet square is projected with great clearness on the screen. The apparatus is easily portable

MOVING PICTURE MACHINE WITHOUT WIRING.

ALBANIA'S KING RISKS LIFE TO SAVE LAND FROM DISASTROUS CIVIL WAR; MUSSELMEN REBELS WARLIKE BUT UNDISCIPLINED

Map showing position of Albania, and Prince William of Wied.

In order to prevent an incipient uprising and thus prevent what might become a disastrous civil war, Prince William of Wied, who is the ruler of the new kingdom of Albania, has gone into battle at the head of his army. The rebels are fanatical Musselmans, who refused to recognize their Christian ruler. They are three times as numerous as the regular Albanian army, which numbers 9,000 men. Though very warlike, the rebelling Mohammedans are badly organized and have been routed in battles fought within the past ten days.

sonable demand that the state engage in life, fire or accident insurance, and I am opposed to placing upon the taxpayers the burdens of installing, promoting, maintaining and conducting such business.
12. With a view of reducing the cost of state government, if I am elected governor, I will immediately select a strong, honorary non-partisan committee to investigate without compensation every department, commission and board with a view of ascertaining the cost of maintaining such department, board and commission; the number of employees, the manner in which they are employed, and their salaries as fixed; the relative value of the service of such commission, department and employee to its cost to the taxpayers of the state. This committee shall be instructed to order and with the approval of republican administration, and I pledge my allegiance and loyal support to the president and congress in their efforts to rectify the national misrule.
13. I endorse without qualification the splendid work of President Wilson, the cabinet and congress, recognizing that every act has been in fulfillment of our platform. I believe that the president has secured the confidence and approval of all civilized people by his humane, broad, progressive but conservative treatment of the perplexing problems that have arisen between our nation and our sister republic of Mexico. I am proud to know that the plan of tariff reduction and reduction has been successfully enacted into law, and that the industrial interests are speedily conforming to that plan. I hold that the money question has been safely solved in the interest of the masses, that the funds of the government have been judiciously planted along the arteries of trade so that in emergencies speedy relief may be had and that the wisdom of the policy is and that the wisdom of the policy is unmistakably attested by the promptness with which the banks of the country have adjusted themselves to the change. I congratulate the administration upon its success in forcing the national treasury from the hands of the trust magnates and stock manipulators. I point to the disgraceful and criminal debauchery of the New York, New-Haven and Hartford railroad that were committed under and with the approval of republican administrations, and I pledge my allegiance and loyal support to the president and congress in their efforts to rectify the national misrule.

In reflecting upon the achievements of the national administration, executive and legislative, I cannot omit to refer to the great service of its distinguished secretary of state, the Honorable William Jennings Bryan, in laying a foundation for the doctrines and principles of peace among the nations of the world.
Respectfully submitted,
JOHN C. KAREL.

PRINCE AND DUKE RUN NECK AND NECK IN RACE FOR $10,000,000 U. S. WIDOW

Mrs. Philip Van Volkenburgh.

The race for the charming Mrs. Philip Van Volkenburgh of New York and her doubly charming millions has now reached the final elimination races in which the Portuguese Duke of Oporto and the Austrian Prince Wolf Metternich are running neck and neck. It is whispered, however, that the fair lady slightly favors the Austrian prince, at whose great castle in Hanover she is soon to be a guest.

Mysteries.
It is a fact that in every man (not in every woman) there lives a lover; a lover who is called out in all his potentialities often by the most insignificant little things—as long as they come at the psychological moment; the glimpse of a face at an unusual angle, an evanescent attitude, the curve of a cheek often looked at before, perhaps, but then, at the moment, charged with astonishing significance. These are great mysteries, of course.—From "Chance," by Joseph Conrad.

Really Fault of the People.

TWO LINES COMPETING

Wisconsin Valley Company is Also Petitioning Railroad Commission for Certificate.

With two companies organized for the purpose of building an interurban line between Janesville and Madison, both of which now have their applications for certificates of convenience and necessity before the state railroad commission, the Janesville and Madison Traction Company has already let the grading contract for the section division of their route between Edgerton and Stoughton. M. M. Doran of Madison was the successful bidder, and will begin work immediately if the company is granted the permit. The railroad commission's decision on the case following the hearing of Thursday, is expected within a week or ten days.

The contract awarded to Mr. Doran requires the removal of from 70,000 to 100,000 yards of dirt, according to Walter H. Sackett, engineer for the company. The work is to be completed January 1.

The route is divided into three divisions, the first lying between Janesville and Edgerton, the second between Edgerton and Stoughton and the third between Stoughton and Madison. Besides carrying passengers the company proposes to handle freight and express and also mail if arrangements can be made with the government. At Janesville the line is to connect with the interurban road running to Rockford and other Illinois cities. According to Mr. Sackett 166,000 acres of land lie tributary to the proposed route.

Mr. Sackett stated recently that G. Pickhardt, president of the company, has given the assurance that the project is financed.

The company has purchased a number of rights of way in Albion, in which town considerable grading will be done. It is proposed to enter the city by way of Blooming Grove and connect with the line of the Southern Wisconsin Railway Company at the Last Chance corner in Fair Oaks.

WEATHER FAVORABLE FOR GROWING CROP

Present Conditions Indicate That Tobacco Will Be Harvested Well Before Season of Frost.

With the new tobacco crop now practically transplanted in the fields within the usual date in this state, there ought not to be much late or poor end to the crop this year. The weather conditions of the week have been especially favorable to a very satisfactory growth in the fields, and excepting now and then a farm where the weeds have been neglected growers could hardly wish for a better prospect at the present writing. Constant cultivation is needed now to keep the crop coming at the pace already set.

The examination of last season's packings for the elimination of any damage that might have accrued in the curing is becoming quite general with the packers. The bulk of the crop is to be quite well sweated and promise to afford the market some fine binder goods. As was expected, there will be some claiming to be done.

Nothing has occurred to break the monotony of a dull market in old leaf. The shipments out of storage reach but about 300 cases from this market to all points since last report.—Edgerton Reporter.

UNITED BRETHREN PICNIC ENJOYED BY TWO HUNDRED

Two hundred persons enjoyed the annual picnic of the United Brethren Sunday school, which was held yesterday at Crystal Springs. Two boat loads made the trip up the river, besides many who went in private launches, carriages and automobiles. It was an ideal day and the baseball game and other amusements were thoroughly enjoyed by the children. Both dinner and supper, two sumptuous meals, were served.

ELIASON FIRM ON GOOD MILK SUBJECT

State Veterinarian Declares People Should Go Without Rather Than Drink Untested Milk.

Madison, Wis., July 10.—"It is better that the people of Milwaukee and other cities too, have no milk at all, than to have untested milk," said State Veterinarian O. H. Elison, upon his return from Omaha, Neb., where he has been in attendance at the Missouri Valley Veterinarians' convention.

Dr. Elison warmly endorsed the efforts of Dr. G. C. Ruhland, health commissioner of Milwaukee, to enforce the tuberculosis test ordinance in face of an alleged boycott by farmers. He declared that Dr. Ruhland is merely doing his duty as any conscientious official should do.

"It is to the farmers' own interest to test their cows," continued the state veterinarian. "Nothing will absorb dirt and heat germs faster than milk. It is a product peculiarly susceptible to contamination by outside forces and is not calculated to be handled and used in its raw state. Very few up-to-date farms today care to have their high-priced calves drink any milk but that from tested cows. It is evident, therefore, that babies, to say nothing of other precious lives, should be fed on milk at least as pure as that we feed our calves."

Dr. Elison was of the belief that the milk fight now engaging Milwaukee is directed by a few unscrupulous dealers and is not backed by a great proportion of the farmers.

The state veterinarian says that at the Omaha meeting the two chief topics were control of tuberculosis and hog cholera. Other middle western states have more hog cholera than Wisconsin, principally because they have more hogs. There are several outbreaks in Wisconsin. Some have been reported in counties on the western border in the vicinity of St. Paul, and from Door county, and one from Dane county.

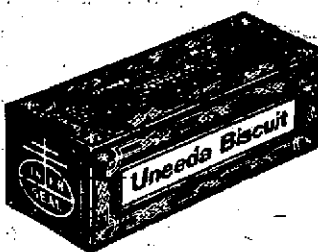

NOVEL DANCE PLANS FOR TUESDAY NIGHT

Cotillion Planned As Feature of Regular Club Night at Sinnissippi Golf Club.

One of the novel features planned for the entertainment of the members of the Sinnissippi Golf Club is a cotillion, to be held on Tuesday evening next, the regular club night. The house committee plan many novel features, among them being a gayly decorated club house, with colored electric lights, electric fans to keep the temperature of the dance room down to a comfortable temperature, and new dances. The committee are working hard to make the affair a success and promise a most delightful evening for those who attend. The regular club supper will come at six-thirty, following the Tuesday afternoon bridge games, and it is expected that the novel evening's entertainment will attract many members to the club house.

DELEGATES TO JEWELERS' MEET CLOSE CONVENTION AT MILWAUKEE TONIGHT

Madison, Wis., July 10.—The 260 delegates to the annual convention of the Wisconsin Retail Jewelers' Association were preparing to leave for their homes today as soon as they had picked the meeting place for next year. Officers were elected last night. The main address at the meeting in the auditorium today was by Charles T. Menahan of Chicago, second vice president of the national association. He talked chiefly of the coming national convention, "As A Man Thinketh," was the subject discussed by C. T. Evans of Utah, New York. Mr. Evans is another vice president of the national association. This evening the jewelers will hold their annual banquet with Gustav Keller of Milwaukee as toastmaster.

TRAVELING ATTIRE FOR VACATION TIME

Desirable Models of Attire for Vacation Time for Miss City Maid Margaret Mason.

(By Margaret Mason.)

Here's a traveling kit for Kitty That will keep her heart and pretty On her week ends from the city.

New York, July 10.—When the fair city radiates upon rural relations and country cousins it is necessary if she would bag a few hearts that her week end bag be a bag of tricks. To get as much as possible in a small package, the modern maid would seem to have a cinch, judging by the things she doesn't wear. The head she does wear is a little more style she puts on the more clothes she takes off, a string of clouded amber beads and a few ruffles of net would seem to be enough to furnish the head of most any country gentleman from Saturday to Monday.

First of all she travels in a suit either of light white serge or cotton fabric with a plain blouse of handkerchief linen either in white or one of the new gay colors. If she believes implicitly in signs a white suit a Phoebe Snow is most effective.

A smart top coat or cape of dark tone, carried over the arm can be pressed into service with equal success for motorizing or the conventional lit. Armed with one of the convenient lit. requisites are ready to hand. A flower trimmed hat that will go well with a fluffy frock and yet not clash with the traveling kit tops and the careful traveler and she is on her way.

Arrived at her destination these are the presto changes that she takes out of her magic pigskin to bewitch the countryside.

A dainty little morning frock of flowered crepe or handkerchief linen, a sports skirt of white ratine for golf or tennis and a stitched crash sport hat that can also be used nicely for evening with the aid of a veil, an extra white organdie blouse, an embroidered net dress of sheerest audacity and transparency and yet not so much that the rose pumpkins can see through its double purpose of serving for afternoon garden parties and the demands and the evening dance without the tea.

One especially desirable model has a loose fitting blouse of shadow lace over a bodice of net which is cut away above the waist line. There is an inner lining of color chiffon which gives a little stability to the short sleeves and blouse above the hips where the net is eliminated in favor of the shadow lace alone. The neck is cut low and V shaped in front with a high medallion collar of the lace. The back is finished with a kind of yellow tie of three flounces—first yellow taffeta which falls below the hips and is shirred on the blouse with a heading, then a flounce of the shadow lace to a half over the hips and a third of the shadow lace which falls to the floor. A sash of the yellow taffeta is caught with a flower of the same silk in the middle of the front waist line and fasten in a butterfly bow at the lower edge of the taffeta tunic behind.

A plain little, cool little flesh color crepe de chine negligee next comes to light. A pair of satin or brocade slippers, a rubbered bodice, a flesh color crepe de chine nightgown and cap, one-half dozen white handkerchiefs and six white tinted and striped borders, and last, least and almost infinitesimal enough to be overlooked in the bag but never to be overlooked (but rather to be looked over many times, on the living model is a scanty bathing suit. This for a dip in the surf where it is guaranteed to make a serf for life of any but a blind man.

And thus is Kitty's kit complete. She's clothes for house and ball and street. For bath and sport, sure at her feet. Will fit each country swain shell meet.

INDIANS BECOMING KEEN POLITICIANS

Spokane, Wash., July 10.—The great question of whether the American Indian will ever take his place in politics and become an active factor in local and state government is being answered satisfactorily in several parts of South Dakota. The poor, whiskey-soaked "Rain-in-the-Face" of earlier days is rapidly changing into a keen and crafty politician. Reports received in the past week from Bennett and Meddette counties indicate that the craftiness of the Indian has been pitted successfully against all of the whites and a score or more of important county offices are now held by Indians. These office holders are auditors of intelligence and education. As a further indication of the trend of the times, the secretary of state recently chartered the "Indian Political Association" of White River, Mellette county, to conduct political affairs in that region on a solid basis. The organization is incorporated by Isaac Bear Looks Behind, Edward Castway In The Forest, Benjamin Hungry, James Bear Thunder and Henry Swift Eagle.

ONE THOUSAND FORMER WISCONSIN RESIDENTS AT A REUNION PICNIC

Spokane, Wash., July 10.—About 1,000 former Badgers gathered in one of the city parks today for a picnic. There are between two and three thousand ex-Wisconsin people in this section of the state and it is who possibly could, attended the festival. Plans were considered by graduates and former students of the state university to form an alumni society.

REALTY MEN CONSIDER CITY PLANNING MOVEMENT

Pittsburg, Mo., July 10.—City planning, ethics and taxation were subjects of importance before the National Association of Real Estate Exchanges for the third day of its convention at the Hotel Schenley in this city. Dean Vincent of Portland, Oregon, led the "question box" which opened the session. Reports of committees and debate followed. M. J. Upham of Duluth reported on International Realty associates. Scheduled addresses included: "Sub-Division Development" by William Harmon, of New York; "The Real Estate Salesman," by E. F. Koebbe, president of the National Association of Real Estate Exchanges; "The Real Estate Salesman from the Other Fellow's Viewpoint," by David Jameson, of New Castle, Pa.; "Sight-seeing automobile tours for the women of the party and moonlight excursions up the Monongahela river to McKeesport were entertainment features today.

One Can Have A Good Time At Table

without the usual cup of coffee, and feel a whole lot better between meals, too—free from that old "off color feeling"—biliousness, indigestion, nervousness and heart flutter.

The secret is

POSTUM

—instead of coffee.

Try the change for a couple of weeks and observe two noticeable things:

You won't miss the old beverage, for Postum tastes much like rare old Java.

Further, there's the brisk, alert feeling,—free from the logyness of a lazy liver and disturbed digestion.

Thousands of people have made the change and know

"There's a Reason"

Postum comes in two forms:

Regular Postum—must be well boiled. 15c and 25c packages.

Instant Postum—needs no boiling. A teaspoonful of the soluble powder stirred in a cup of hot water makes a delightful beverage instantly. Add cream and sugar to taste. 30c and 50c tins.

The cost per cup of both kinds is about the same.

Grocers everywhere sell POSTUM.

Make it Yours Coca-Cola

Multitudes drink it—some for plain thirst—some for refreshment—all for deliciousness. So will you.

Demand the genuine by full name—Nicknames encourage substitution.

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

ON EXPECTING GRATITUDE.

A YOUNG wife was complaining to me the other day because her husband so seldom expressed his gratitude for her sacrifices in his behalf, and her efforts to please him. "I feel as if it were all in vain," she said.

The desire to be paid in praise and gratitude for all the good things that we do, and the feeling that our effort is otherwise lost, is an almost universal weakness.

We are willing to give ourselves generously, but we expect a due return in recognition and appreciation, and we are all subject to moods of revolt when we find (as we invariably must) that we do not get it.

Let me tell you, Reader Friend, what would be a good specific against such a mood.

To take down the biographies from our bookshelves, look over the lives of some of the men who have given great and beautiful things to humanity, and see how little reward and recognition they received.

I will tell you some of the things you will find.

Rembrandt, one of the world's greatest artists, after a life of bitter struggles, died in abject poverty.

The other day one of Franz Hals' pictures sold for $500,000, yet Franz Hals himself died in a poor house.

Millet, after a vain struggle for recognition and appreciation, was obliged to put with his Angelus for $250. He himself realized that it was a great work and bitterly resented the insult of such a price. Some years later the picture was brought to this country and exhibited all over the United States at twenty-five cents a head.

HOW TO MAKE A FIRELESS COOKER.

In all the talk that fireless cooking has recently created throughout the country, there has been little or no mention of the fact that the principle has been known almost as long as cooking itself, and that its application is within the reach of every household. Every woman who wraps a bottle of water in a flannel in order to keep it hot uses the principle, and everyone who has a kettle and a box big enough to put it in, can make a fireless cooker. Its use means less fuel burned and more liberty for the housewife.

Fireless cooking is a convenient but inaccurate term. It does not mean that one can cook without fire, but that one can cook with less fire. The food has first to be well heated in the ordinary way. It is then so thoroughly protected that the heat does not escape for a long time. In consequence the food continues to cook, long after the fire is out in the range and the housewife gone about her other affairs.

There are many good fireless cookers—or to speak more accurately, cooking boxes—on the market, but it is quite possible to make one instead of buying it. The first necessity is the kettle to hold the food. The size of this naturally determines the size of the box in which it is to be placed. Between the kettle and the sides of the box there should be plenty of room for the packing which prevents the heat from escaping. For example, a shoe box measuring 15 by 15 by 28 inches is perhaps as easily obtained as any other kind. This may be divided into two compartments each holding a kettle capable of containing six or eight quarts. In general, it may be said that for a kettle of this size, the box should measure about fifteen inches every way.

The question of the material to be used in packing the space between the kettle and the box is an important one. Asbestos and mineral wool are undoubtedly excellent, but they are also undoubtedly expensive. Satisfactory substitutes can be had at little or no cost. After experimenting with hay, excelsior, ground cork and paper, investigators from the United States department of agriculture decided that crumpled paper was the most practical. It not only holds the heat well, but is clean and odorless, and does not require a cloth lining for the box. Single sheets of newspaper should be crushed between the hands and then pounded down until there is a layer at least two inches deep over the bottom of the box. Then the kettle should be placed in the center and crumpled paper packed as solidly as possible all around it, a vacant space about two inches high being left at the top of the box. For this space a cushion of some heavy goods like denim and stuffed with paper or excelsior must be provided. If the packing is done carefully and solidly, the "nest" will keep its shape and the kettle can be removed and replaced without trouble.

The box itself should have a hinged cover fastened down securely in front by some kind of clasp. An ordinary clamp window fastener answers this purpose admirably. In order to get the best results the kettles or other utensils should have straight sides and flat covers with deep rims shutting well down, but this is not indispensable. It should be remembered, however, that every little thing, no matter how trivial it may seem, which aids in retaining the heat is an advantage.

It is obvious that the "fireless cooker" is better fitted for long, slow cooking than for articles that need a hot fire. It does particularly well, therefore, with cereals and soups—and soup is a valuable addition to one's diet too much neglected in this country.

Another advantage which the box possesses springs from the fact that the protracted cooking which it makes feasible does much to render the cheaper and tougher cuts of meat as palatable as the more expensive. There is, in fact, no doubt that with a little forethought and experience, a skillful cook can save fuel and time by "fireless cooking."

Father's Reassuring Letters Only Strengthen Mother's Convictions That Peggy's a Poor Cook.

Of course father, Tom and Peggy wrote frequently to mother while she rested at the country health resort and of course mother was greatly interested in every letter. It has been seen that when mother left home she felt some distress at the thought of what Peggy would be able to do in the way of keeping house.

The more thought she gave the matter, the more thoroughly was she convinced that the house upon her return would show a striking resemblance to a gypsy camp. And then she worried quite a bit about the food that would be had in her absence.

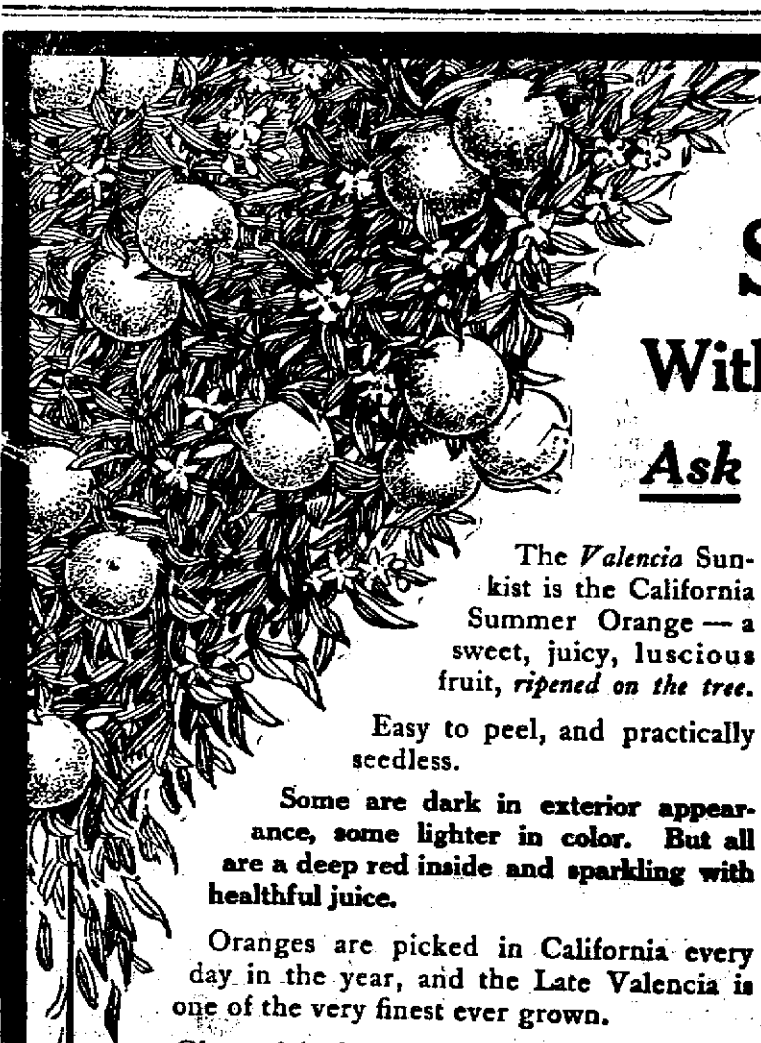

Peggy had never undertaken anything more difficult than put fudge and tomato salad. How in the world would she ever negotiate a steak or mashed potatoes? The letters from home were her only hope of any information along this line and they were all strangely silent when it came to the mention of food and eating.

Peggy of course would not be likely to bring up the subject, but mother had hoped that father or Tom would speak of the matter. She decided that they didn't complain for fear that she would worry and not benefit by her rest. That was it. And in this mood she opened with an almost unwonted eagerness the letter from father than an attendant brought to her chair.

Heart and Home Problems

Dear Mrs. Thompson: My son, a child (a daughter) and my son-in-law, an old lady and I have a good home and all things nice and comfortable. This daughter has three children—two girls and a little boy. They have all been going to school, but now they are at home. The youngest girl is a dreadfully saucy child; will quarrel and fight with the other children; will not help with the work; and sometimes comes to blows; tells lies so you cannot believe one word she speaks. She is fourteen years old and is teaching the dear little boy to do mean things and tell lies as she does.

Her mother is not a strong woman and cannot control her. She will tell lies and make up ugly faces at her mother as well as at me. She is also mighty proud and wants everything nice.

I have given them a good home and worked for them for years. Now I am getting too old to work so hard and it does not seem to me I can put up with this abuse from this girl and still do for her.

Had I better leave my home and go and work for strangers or what can I do? I cannot live this way.

I have told her if she did not behave herself I should surely send her to a reform school, but that does not make any difference please tell me the proper authority and how to make my complaint, as I do not know how we can get along with this girl. If the girl is proud, dear grandmother, can you not work on her pride and make her do better? If she understands that good manners, kindness and helping with the work will bring her towards a better life, she might do a great deal better. If the home is yours, you can tell your daughter that she must find another home and give you peace in your old age.

The girl might be sent away to a girls' school. The Catholic sisters would train her beautifully, no matter what your religion, and may a stubborn, bad-tempered child has been made over into something beautiful in these schools. A reform school with this abuse from this girl, young girl. What ever she doesn't know she will soon learn there. Do not be afraid to consult a Catholic priest or the head of any Catholic school nearby. They will give you good advice.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: We are girls of thirteen and ten.

(1) What is the cause of a large lump on the neck? What can be done about it?

(2) What can be done for crookedness besides shoulder braces?

(3) What can be done for silliness?

(4) You may have a golfer. There seems to be no certain cure for this. You might consult a physician. Rest, freedom from worry, plenty of outdoors and nourishing food; in fact, improving the physical condition generally will help towards a cure.

(5) If you mean the habit of stooping which makes round shoulders, will power will help more than anything. Keep your chin high, your chest full of air, your feet steady, and you won't be round-shouldered.

(6) Read good books and think about the serious things in life.

(7) A doctor must tell you about this.

their childhood. This is not to be contented at, as in everything, it is practice that tends towards perfection.

In a letter that came in for the woman's page of this paper, a young mother told of her inability to sew when she first entered a home of her own. She was far from her parents; the sewing had to be done. She bought the required patterns with a happy, joyous heart. The day she started cutting out the wee garments her troubles commenced as she was unable to tell one end of some of the patterns from the other.

This, to the reader, may seem improbable, but had you read the young mother's letter you would not have doubted her statement. She knew a woman's eye alone would scan it and she said some things that would set most mothers thinking. She had been taught a little music, a little singing; she could hemstitch, embroider; but the foundation of her education had been left out. She had been "finished" without having been taught the plain, homely tasks, the essential necessities of life. Then, on entering a home of her own, she had to learn what she should have been taught all through her childhood's happy years. She did not know how to buy wisely; she had no idea of the value of a dollar; she could not plan, prepare and serve a meal.

Her husband had been taught by far-seeing parents how to buckle down and earn a living; had a trade, drew a good salary. Did that young man get a square deal in the matrimonial game and did that young woman get a square deal from her parents? While we are asking so many questions, might we ask you, how you are raising your daughters?

"Don't go in for any sort of work now, Enoch. Your duty at present is to lie there and get well."

"I want that drawer, now."

Merry stared at him for a moment, then he obeyed, and returned to the room with the drawer in his hand.

"Do you think," the actor paused again and asked anxiously, "do you think that you are strong enough yet to attend to business?"

"This isn't business," Enoch's face grew peremptory. "I'm strong enough for this. I'm not a praying man, Andrew."

"I should imagine so. Still, it's an unopened book to me," Merry admitted.

"We used to sit and talk every night around the campfire. I remember once this young MacGregor explained to me why a man we had both known committed murder. He killed his wife first, then, horror-stricken, shot himself. It's a common enough story, you read it in the papers every day of the week, but it came close to us because we had both known the fellow well. He was a decent, quiet, cheerful citizen, with a genial, kindly way about him. His taking off seemed a mystery. None of us had even seen him angry. Suddenly he turned into a flaming fiend, a murderer, and a suicide. Nothing but insanity or the Yale man's theory explained it."

"What was his theory?"

Wentworth paused for a minute with a haunted look in his eyes. "He claims that the morals of every human being are molded during the first twenty years of his life. Into a fairly decent career there comes occasionally—for the life of me I can't remember his technical name for it—I should call it a moral lesion. Some sin which a man has committed, and you might say lived down, before he was twenty,

erupts out again years after and it conquers him. Each time he may repeat and turn over a new leaf. The world looks on him not as an Admirable Critchton perhaps, but as a tolerably good fellow. Then suddenly, without the ghost of a warning, even after he imagines he has outgrown the tendency to that particular sin, there comes a temptation, and he goes under as if his backbone was gristle. He falls

as quick as that."

Wentworth paused for a moment and snapped his fingers. "Curious,

isn't it?" he added.

"It certainly is curious," agreed

Merry.

"When the career of this murderer was brought to the light of day, they found that once when he was a schoolboy, and again, when a friend stole his sweetheart, he might have committed murder if a weapon had been at hand.

The third time a gun lay close to his elbow."

Andrew Merry did not speak, but sat watching Enoch with bewilderment

in his eyes.

"I am going to tell you about two lesions which occurred in my own life.

There was a third—you know about that one yourself."

Across the pale face of the invalid swept a wave of scarlet; then he began to talk slowly and hesitatingly.

"I was in a Southern academy the first time it happened. I must have been seventeen or thereabouts. Prizes were to be given for a public oration and people were coming from everywhere to hear us. My father was a lawyer, one of the big lawyers of the state. He went to this school when he was a boy, and he had carried off the oration prize. His heart was set on my winning it. I toiled and toiled over that speech; it was about the death of Julius Caesar. I can remember, as I lay awake nights staring out into the darkness, how the speech came throbbing in my brain. I could never write, though, as I declaimed it to myself in the still dormitory. I used to go out into the woods and try to write: One day I gave up. I sat huddled against a stone wall which ran down the hill, dividing a pasture from the forest.

"Don't, old man, let us bury this now and forever. Good! God! isn't it restitution enough to have saved my life?"

"No," Enoch spoke with swift passion, "no, it isn't restitution. Don't stand in my way. You have to humor sick men, you know. Besides, I want to lay my soul bare to you now, Andrew. Had I been a Catholic I should have done it to a priest long ago, I suppose."

"Go ahead, Enoch, I'll listen," he said gently.

Wentworth turned in bed and clasped his hands around one bent knee. "Years ago," he began brus-quely, "I was wandering about in the Tennessee mountains on an assignment when I fell in with a chap who taught psychology in Yale. He was nothing wonderful, but his science was fascinating. Time and again, since those days, I have planned, if I could find the leisure, to go into psychology and study the thing out. Still, any man who knocks about the world as I have done learns to puzzle things out for himself. There must be something alluring, though, to be able to reduce the promptings of one's own soul to a science and then to work out a problem in yourself. Don't you think so?"

"I should imagine so. Still, it's an

The Credibility of Christ's Resurrection

By REV. WILLIAM EVANS, D.D.
Director of Bible Course
Master Bible Institute, Chicago

TEXT—Acts 12

Credibility refers to the acceptance of a fact in a manner that deserves belief; it is belief based upon good authority, reliable facts, and competent witnesses. Credibility is belief in a thing without respect to the strength or weakness, reliability or unreliability of the authority, facts, or witnesses; it is a following too readily, and with no reason for the faith or hope. The resurrection of Christ is a fact proved by competent evidence, and deserving of intelligent acceptance and belief. It is a doctrine buttressed by "many in-dubitable proofs."

The line of proof here suggested is that from the argument of cause and effect. Certain things, conditions, institutions exist in our midst today; are the effects of causes, or a cause; what is that cause. We may mention:

1. The Empty Tomb.

The fact that the tomb was empty is testified to by competent witnesses—both friends and enemies; by the women, the disciples, the angels, and the Roman guards. How shall we account for the absence of the body of Jesus from the tomb? That it had not been stolen by outside parties is evident from the testimony of the soldiers who were bribed to tell that story (Matt. 28:11-15). Such a guard never would have allowed such a thing to take place. Their lives would have been thereby jeopardized. And if they were asleep (v. 13), how could they know what took place? Their testimony under such circumstances would be useless.

The condition in which the linen cloths were found lying by those who entered the tomb precludes the possibility of the body being stolen. Had such been the case the cloths would have been taken with the body, and not left in perfect order, thereby showing that the body had gone out of them. Burglars do not leave things in such perfect order. There is no order in haste. Then again, we have the testimony of angels to the fact that Jesus had really risen as foretold (Matt. 28:6; Mark 16:6). The testimony of angels is surely trustworthy (Heb. 2:2).

2. The Lord's Day.

The Lord's Day is not the original Sabbath. Who dared change it? For what reason, and on what ground was it changed? Ponder the tenacity with which the Jews held on to their Sabbath given in Eden, and buttressed amid the thunders of Sinai. Recall how Jews would sooner die than fight on the Sabbath day (cf. Titus' invasion of Jerusalem on the Sabbath). The Jews never celebrated the birthdays of great men; they celebrated events, like the Passover. Yet, in the New Testament times we find Jews changing their time-honored seventh day to the first day of the week, and contrary to all precedent, calling that day after a man—the Lord's Day. Here is an effect, a tremendous effect; what was its cause? We cannot have an effect without a cause.

3. The Christian Church.

We know what a grand and noble institution the Christian church is. What would this world be without it? Its hymns, worship, philanthropy, ministrations of mercy are all known to us. Where did this institution come from? It is an effect, a glorious effect; what is its cause? When the risen Christ appeared unto the discouraged disciples and revived their faith and hope, they went forth, under the all-conquering faith in a risen and ascended Lord, and preached the story of his life, death, resurrection, ascension, and coming again. Men believed these teachings; gathered themselves together to study the Scriptures, to pray, to worship Christ, and to extend his kingdom among men. This is how the church came into existence.

4. The New Testament.

If Jesus Christ had remained buried in the grave, the story of his life and death would have remained buried with him. The New Testament is an effect of Christ's resurrection. It was the resurrection that put heart into the disciples to go forth and tell its story. Skeptics would have us believe that the resurrection of Christ was an afterthought of the disciples to give the story of Christ's life a thrilling climax; a decorative incident which satisfies the dramatic feeling in man; a brilliant picture at the end of an heroic life. We reply: There would have been no beautiful story to tell a climax to if there had been no resurrection of the Christ of the story. The resurrection does not grow out of the beautiful story of his life, but the beautiful story of Christ's life grew out of the fact of the resurrection. The New Testament is the book of the resurrection of Christ.

THE INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON.

Third Quarter. Lesson II. Mark 10:32-45. July 12, 1914. GREATNESS THROUGH SERVICE. (THE STORY)

A strange and sad incident! It illustrates vividly the small progress Jesus had made with his disciples in teaching them the new ideal of life. It was within thirty days of the end of his career, and they had three years of instruction. Yet their notion of the nature of his kingdom was so crude that the heart of the Master must have been distressed. They thought it something objective and material. They had taken his analogy of the twelve thrones literally, and were hungry for the spoils of office. James and John, the very ones from whom he might naturally expect the most, really led off in the demand for official preferment. They seemed not to have profited by previous errors which Jesus had corrected. They had forbidden one whom they found casting out devils, because he did not follow them, and they had wanted to call down fire on the Samaritans. The Master had, in these instances, rebuked the earliness of their aims and methods. But now they betray such a base notion of their Leader that they think he could be guilty of nepotism. Their mother, Salome, was Mary's sister, and they thought they should have the same claim to preferment. It is a family attempt to steal a march on the others. They are especially anxious to cut Peter out, the most aggressive of the apostles. They had reason to believe Jesus regarded them with special interest—for John was his favorite at table, and James was always included with the two others as witnesses of the most significant events.

In the form of their request they seem to have had the Sanhedrin in mind. The Prince of the Sanhedrin sat in the midst of two rows of elders. On his right sat the "Father of the Sanhedrin," and on his left the "Sage of the Sanhedrin." So James and John had an ambitious dream of being seated high in the marble court of the Elders of Israel. It may not have been entirely unmixt selfishness. There may have been elements of patriotism. But they totally missed the spirit of the kingdom. This dullness of his best disciples must have been mortifying to Jesus. In fact, it was more trying to him than the active opposition of the Pharisees.

With infinite patience Jesus began to teach the lesson all over again, and unfold the essential principles of his kingdom. He could be charitable to his tardy disciples, for he was founding a commonwealth—the like of which the world had never seen before—a kingdom of the heart, entirely subjective, ethical, and spiritual. Well could Jesus say, "Ye know not what ye ask." Within a month they saw those coveted places at his right and left hand occupied indeed, but by crucified slaves! "Can you drink of my cup?" So far from being able to drink of the cup of his calamity, they did not even dream in spite of all his teaching, that such a cup was soon to be pressed to his lips. There was no room for the cross in their conception of his kingdom. Again, the very spiritual nature of the new Commonwealth makes the arbitrary distribution of position among favorites an impossibility. In point of fact, "lordship" in the common sense of that word is entirely ruled out. The only greatness is that of love, obedience, humility, and service, and there can be nothing precious in this. To the fit seat the fittest person only can come. Those nearest the King can reach their station only by the path the King himself has taken. It is Jesus' must have been touched with pity when he said to these overconfident disciples, "You shall drink of my cup."

He knew the significance of the words. They did not, it compensated also for present disappointment to know as he did that these vainglorious followers would finally learn his doctrine and imitate his example, and prove in heroic martyrdom their premature assertion, "We can drink your cup." The obvious criticism of the "two" by the "ten" gave Jesus another opportunity to further illuminate the essential principle of his kingdom. The ten were not worthier than the two. In point of fact they were in the same fault. They were only incensed against James and John because they had forestalled them. Jesus differentiates his kingdom from the Gentile states. But it is in his kingdom. The very opposite maintains. The greatest is the greatest servant. And of this principle he is about to give the sublimest example ever witnessed.

THE TEACHERS' LANTERN. They may have been because Jesus had lately rebuked them, and they felt themselves not in good form, that James and John got their mother to prefer their request for them. She is supposed, also, to have been Jesus' aunt. The request was in the "spoiled child" form. They sought to exact a promise before they named the thing they wanted. The frankness of Jesus is here illustrated. He also knew that to have their disciples put their mean request in words in the hearing of all would help them discover the meanness of it.

Jesus here shows, in his reference to his cup and baptism, his perfect knowledge of what awaited him. The end was not hidden from him. In the Oriental family yet it is the father's custom to divide the meal according to his judgment, giving each his portion of meat and drink. So the good and ill of life is considered the portion dealt to each by the Heavenly Father. Gradually the cup came to indicate the sorrowful portion particularly. The unit person in the fit place is the most incongruous picture in history. The prepared place is for the prepared person and vice versa. High station has high price. Incompetence may stumble into office, but has no tenure.

Not men-selected-men have been immortal heroes of the kingdom of heaven, but the heaven-selected. This is not, however, a proof text against office in the Church. Reference is only to the spirit in which office is assumed. Unseemly that that solemn hour, so near the shadow of the cross, there should be this fierce fire of controversy. The displeasure of the "ten" is as reprehensible as the ambition of the "two." It sprang out of the spirit of rivalry which Jesus had lately rebuked. The "two" were selfish. The "ten" were jealous. Selfishness is the seed of jealousy. "Lordship and authority, not so among you" is the announcement of a new law in the new kingdom. It is a brand-new principle in hopeless conflict with current ideas. It is service versus lordship. All the greatness known in Jesus' kingdom is the greatness of goodness, humility, and service. Ambition to spiritual lordship has ruined men and Churches. The Church has ruined many a State, and the State corrupted many a Church. In every instance, however, it has been when this initial principle of the kingdom of heaven on earth has been discarded.

(Led by the Music Committee) "Praise ye the Lord! Praise him in his sanctuary! Praise him in the firmament of his power!" He blurs his notes, the tenor said of the organist, "none are clear-cut." "Correct!" yes, but without inspiration—spiritless! How unlike Bach, who in ecstasy cried, "My organ is the glorious pure voice of God." It is only from the heart's altar that warmest praise arises.

Refuted Aristotle. In a recent lecture in London, a scientist called attention to the fact that Aristotle said that a weight of ten pounds, for example, fell ten times as fast as a weight of one pound, and the world went on believing it for 2,000 years. But Galileo preferred to try for himself by dropping Aristotle's weights from the Leaning Tower of Pisa, and, though people still did not believe him, he showed that they reached the ground practically together.

Everything Lacking. Personally we have met some men who, if weighed in the balance, would be found wanting everything, including the balance.—Galveston News.
